Date of Death: October 23, 2017

“Fancy came to us when he was 7-years-old. He did everything with class and beauty. He would go anywhere and do anything you asked him to; you had to get out of his way when loading into a trailer because he was ready to “go”! His name truly fit him to a “T”.

His ground manners were impeccable. He would never accidentally step on your foot and, although not recommended, our grandkids were able to walk under him and around him without worry. He knew that when the little ones were around, he was to stand perfectly still like a gentleman, lower his head and stay there for as long as they were around. Our littlest granddaughter, Brynn, would sit in his hay while he ate, much to my dismay. I was always nicely asking her to let Fancy have his space, but she loved him as much as I did!

He truly was one-of-a-kind. He was, and still is, the love of my life and I miss him more each and every day. It warms my heart to share a little piece of him.”
